A charming Victorian house in a select and extremely quiet corner setting, well screened from the street which adds to the feeling of privacy and with useful side access into the garden. The wider plot has allowed extension over two floors to the side of the house - so making for a versatile arrangement both upstairs and down, with enormous potential to take further to create a truly unique space. The secluded garden is a particular feature and can be accessed from both kitchen/ breakfast and reception rooms via pairs of glazed doors which maximise light. The house is perfect for a family looking to extend or down-sizers who'd appreciate the quality of location and aspect. It also offers potential to convert the loft, subject to planning. The house is tucked away at the western end of Rylett Crescent on the corner of Bassein Park Road. Local shops and restaurants on Askew Road and both Wendell and Ravenscourt Park are within a short walk, as are numerous good schools and the shopping and transport hubs of Hammersmith, Turnham Green Terrace and Westfield.
